Wifi Teen Safe Apps

With the growing use of electronics in your home, you might be feeling the increased need to monitor the time and energy your students are spending on their devices. There are several types of parental control options to manage wifi usage in your home. These options may include:

- Blocking inappropriate websites
- Setting daily screen time limits
- Manual pause on wifi for specific devices
- Usage tracking

Most computer or cell phone companies offer these parental control options so you may wish to consult your provider. Please see the following for a few of the most popular options:
